I have the honor to report that two fine bells have arrived here as presents from the King of Naples: one to the Convent in Jerusalem, the other to the Convent of Bethlehem.

The officers and sailors of the French Corvette "L' Olivier" raised the latter of these on the 27th Ult.

The other was raised on Sunday last the 7th Instant, amid acclamations and feux de joie

Three bells now regularly ring the Angelus instead of the smaller bells that have been used for two or three years past.

The Armenian Convent has now a large bell over the Church — and the Greek Clerical Seminary at the Convent of the Cross, in a valley, a mile and a half from the city, has also a large bell and steeple.

I have the honor to
